we do not doubt it, it shows that in Manitoba at least Reil is held in high esteem, and that the slaying of poor Scott is no bar to his political prospects in that Province. The elected, present himself at Ottawa to take his

If so, what course will the Government pursue towards him? No doubt many, probably a majority, of the representatives from Que-his colleagues from Manitoba, and hence it will be interesting to see what action the Government will take in the premises, for at this particular crisis in its history it can ill afford to come in conflict with any number of the representatives in the Commons on such a question as that of the Scott murder.

If he has any intention of ever visiting Otta-

To-Night's Entertainment.-The attraction of the Theatre to-night is of more than usual interest. Mrs. Robert Fulford, wife o' the manager of the Rosedale Theatrical Company, appears in the role of Pauline, in the in the character of Margery, in the laughable thought the Repulse will await her arrival farce entitled "Cousin Joe." When we inform our readers that this talented actress is company will to-night be increased by the assistance of an amateur who has, on several occasions, at the Theatre Royal, displayed talent of no mean order. This will be the last appearance of the Company in this city, and those who fail to witness the performance, will regret missing an opportunity which, in the patronage of meritorious act-surrendering to the Germans, he replied that he feared the enemy would take revenge if he did so; besides, the labor was too great Duke D'Aumale, President of the Court, asked him what greater rigor could the enemy have shown than was imposed? Bazaine re-plied, in an evasive manner, that such a destruction was unexampled; besides, be thought Metz would revert to France. In reply to other questions, in relation to the flags, the Marshal maintained that he pub-licly and distinctly ordered them to be retained. His orders were to have them all brought to the arsenal for destruction. This luded the examination of Bazaine.

THEATRE ROYAL .- The Rosedale Dramatic Company made their second appearance here on Saturday evening last, with a programme embracing the favorite drama "Colleen Bawa" and the very laughable farce "Kate O'Brien." In the former, Mrs. Annie Fulford as Eily O'Connor was very pleasing and often won loud applause, and Mr. Robt Fulford in the two characters Myles Na Coppaleen and Danny Mann, impersonated the parts cleverly. The other members of the company in their respective roles ably supported the leading characters. At the close of the drama the Pixley sisters gave a very amusing selection of songs and dances, and the en'er-tainment wound up with the farce "Kat-O'Brien." The audience throughout expressed very general satisfaction, and will and for ports on the Miramichi, New Bruns doubtless assemble en masse to-night to wit wick, will appear to-morrow. ness the last appearance of the company in

Utilizing STATUARY .- From the Leeds Mercury of September 13th we have: "Yesterday a statue of Nelson of gigantic proportions, erected on a rock on the Anglesea shore of Menai Straits was unveiled by Lady Clarence Paget. The statue was modeled and executed after two years' patient labor by Admiral Lord Clarence Paget, and it is below his seal in Anglesea that it is placed. The material is a combination of limestone and Portland cement, and the figure is strengthened by the insertion of a central iron cone. The noble Lord's primary object was to show that statues can be constructed of a material little interior to marble in appearance, and probably more durable, at one-tenth the cost, and thus he has endeavored to carry out a darling project of the Prince Consort's. The statue; including plinth, is 19 feet in beight, and the pedestal and basement tower are 22 feet high, making a total height of 41 feet. It is intended as a land-mark to warn mariners of dan-gerous rocks on the Carnarvonshire and Anglesea sides of the straits." The Portland Bu'letin remarks: "Very likely if the great hero of Trafalgar had been asked in his lifetime to allow such use of his enduring counterfeit presentment in stone, he would have naswered as he did when, at Copenhagen, atter Admiral Parker made signal for a retreat, he put the spy-glass to his blind eye and declared he couldn't see it. Perhaps the statue is expected to serve as a warning off shore of belligerent naval forces, bent on invasion. Think of Nelson as a scarecrow at
